CHROME EXPERIMENTS

Created as a promotional visual for TEPHAYA's planned pop-up event in Salzburg, this project explores experimental typography through distorted letterforms, metallic textures and exaggerated proportions.

Inspired by early 2000s digital aesthetics and futuristic graphic design, I wanted to create something that feels both nostalgic and ahead of its time. The reflective surfaces, stretched typography and symmetrical composition turn the lettering itself into the main visual element.

a little too futuristic for 2026?
